

Mobile Services

Chrysalis - Services

Service with a delightful twist. Chrysalis staff are going mobile to provide services directly at the clients home or within their community. This allows for important social interactions and will be personalized to meet client needs. Whether it's in-home support or quality-time outside to do some gardening, go for a walk, have a picnic or something else, then please contact us to see what we can do for you at home.

Our mobile home visits:

- Will be a scheduled time block for one staff member to meet with one client. Multiple time blocks can be arranged.
 - Will be conducted in adherence to public health orders and safety protocols.
 - For everyone's safety, our staff will also work exclusively with only one assigned family to ensure limited contact with other people.
 - Families will need to fill out our assessment form to protect our staff prior to any in-home visits.
 - Chrysalis staff will be screened before arrival to your home to ensure they're COVID-sympton free.
 - Chrysalis staff will have portable hand washing supplies, don personal protective equipment (as appropriate) and will provide the same equipment to the clients (as appropriate).

How were these new mobile services created?

A number of elements and criteria are factored into every program and service developed and offered at Chrysalis. For example, some of the core criteria we use includes the alignment of learning opportunities with the Government of Alberta's Persons with Developmental Disabilities (PDD) funding program Quality of Life Framework, which is a way of measuring the degree to which a person enjoys the possibilities of their life.

Within the Quality of Life framework is an outcome Performance Management Framework (PMF) with four core pillars identified below and their respective domains which describe personal and environmental factors that influence quality of life.

Wellbeing	How to maximize personal wellbeing through physical, emotional & material wellbeing
Independence	How to provide supports to be as independent as possible through personal development and self-determination
Community Connectedness	How to engage with and be valued by community through human rights, social inclusion and interpersonal relations
Quality Services	How PDD-funded services meet the assessed needs and contribute to positive outcomes for each individual based on relevancy, effectiveness, efficiency and safety.

What will this mobile service cost?

There are no costs to you related to this new mobile service.

How Chrysalis programs and services are funded?

About 85% of our current funding for Chrysalis is from the Government of Alberta's Persons with Developmental Disabilities (PDD) funding program within the Community and Social Services Ministry. This funding is directed to helping adults with developmental disabilities to be a part of their communities and get services to live as independently as possible in their community.

- The PDD Program funds, monitors and evaluates the provision of services for individual Albertans with developmental disabilities. These services supplement the support of family, friends and community members, and assist clients to live as independently as they can in the community.
- Services are provided to support clients in their home, work and social environments based on the individual's assessed support needs.

Remaining funds come from Chrysalis' fund development activities like donations, fundraisers and grants, and from profits from our social enterprises - Chrysalis Woods and Plastics and chrysp.
